

Israeli-Austrian youth exchange program Back to the Roots – Spurensuche

30 June to 9 July 2019

Call for Applications for 15 young Israelis

The Israeli-Austrian youth exchange program Back to the Roots – Spurensuche, which is organized by the Austrian NGO GEDENKDIENTST, an association for historical-political education, will take place in Austria between the 30th of June and the 9th of July 2019. The aim of Back to the Roots is to promote the exchange between young people from Israel and Austria. This international encounter is framed as a study trip on the aftermath of Nazism and the Holocaust in Austria today. We want to discuss the complexity of history and its effects on the present both on a personal as well as a collective level by providing personal exchanges, workshops and lectures. Our dealing with the past will be based on the family biographies of all participants. The focus will be on the years 1938 to 1945, however the preconditions of Nazi persecution, the legacy of the Holocaust and its effects on Austrian and Israeli society will be discussed as well. Together we will investigate the connections of the personal Austrian history of the Israeli and Austrian participants and look for traces of different roles that family members played – as victims, perpetrators or bystanders.

We are looking for 15 young Israelis with family connections to Austria who are willing to engage in a challenging confrontation with their family history in Austria during a youth exchange with 10 young Austrian participants. The program will take place in Austria between the 30th of June and the 9th of July 2019. The requirements for the seminar are the willingness to be part of an in-depth investigation of Austrian history, starting from the own family roots up to Austrian society's role in Nazism and Nazi crimes, as well as an exchange with young Austrians who are interested in investigating their own family traces and connections.

The program offers
